

Homework 13

Due Monday, October 31 at 11am (in class)

1. For a periodical that you normally read, analyze the kinds of presuppositions and metaphors used (you can use as little as one magazine or as much as a week's worth of newspapers, including The Pitt News):
 - A. Find one 'gendered' and one 'non-gendered' metaphor and presupposition each.
 - B. How is the 'gendering' accomplished in the gendered ones?
 - C. Contrast these with the non-gendered ones. What's the difference?
 - D. Do you think the gendered versions perpetuate a particular gender ideology? In other words, do you think readers will notice and question them?