PROGRAM NOTES

Concord is based on three traditional tunes from old New England; The White Cockade, William Billings’ America, and Yankee Doodle.

The White Cockade is a fife and drum marching tune widely known during the days of the American Revolution. It had also played a part in British military tradition.

America was written by William Billings (1746-1800); an ardent patriot, amateur musician, and tanner by trade. He attempted to create a new kind of hymn for the New England church, which resulted in an outpouring of hymn tunes such as America, which reflects the independent spirit of the young nation at its birth.

Yankee Doodle is a folk song most widely associated with the revolutionary war. Its origins are obscure and have been subject to a great variety of improbable theories. It had spread throughout the colonies by the mid-eighteenth century, and was very popular as a tune for jigs and country-dances.

—Clare Grundman
Walls of Zion  The Walls of Zion is a revival spiritual that has been used by many composers as the basis of their music. Aaron Copland used the tune in the finale of his opera The Tender Land as well as Dan Welcher, who used the tune in his piece for wind ensemble, Zion. In this setting, Greg Danner uses the tune in a piece for young band, contrasting beautiful tonal colors in the woodwinds with rich chorale-like sections in the brass.

Prairie Dances  Settled in 1876, Wichita Falls, Texas, became a bustling cattle and grain shipping center after the arrival of the railroad in 1882. One can imagine the hustle and bustle of this cowboy town in those railroad days where the ‘rambunctiousness’ of the cowhand came face to face with the businesslike demeanor of the mercantile owners and frontier gentility of the Ladies Society. For my good friends in Region II, I offer this ‘celebrative’ cowboy dance to commemorate the rip-roaring history that surrounds this portion of Texas portrait.

—David Holsinger

Songs of Old Kentucky  Stephen Foster wrote My Old Kentucky Home in 1852. Between 1895 and 1901 the Edison Quartet recorded the song on a brown wax cylinder and the song became hugely popular. In 1928 the song was adopted as Kentucky’s official state song. Kentucky Home was commissioned by the Psi Chapter, Phi Beta Mu International Bandmaster Fraternity, with the request that My Old Kentucky Home be included in the piece. Having an affinity for the songs of Stephen Foster, I was inspired and motivated to write a piece that celebrated the great state of Kentucky and sought to capture the pioneer spirit of Daniel Boone and others who led the area to statehood in 1792. The piece alternates between a sprightly theme (first heard in the trumpets) and Foster’s My Old Kentucky Home which is first eluded to in the slow introduction. The sprightly theme is indicative of the pioneer spirit of the early Kentuckians and, of course, the Foster song reminds us, quite nostalgically, of the beautiful countryside where thousands of people have made their homes. A development section occupies the middle of the piece which includes an array of percussion and a fugal exposition built on a subject utilizing the first two phrases of My Old Kentucky Home. This section drives toward a tour de force in which both themes are united and culminate in a spirited and exciting coda.

—Brant Karrick

Solid Men to the Front  Published in 1918, Solid Men to the Front is a lesser-known march by the “March King” John Philip Sousa. At California State University, Long Beach we have a close connection with the march. In the 1960’s, director of bands H. Robert Reynolds decided to have the members of the marching band play the trio from the march in a very lively fashion. This became a tradition at the football games and eventually became to CSULB Fight Song. Go Beach!

—Jeffrey de Seriere
