Interdisciplinary Option (code RGR_BA10) (120 units)

Directors - Clorinda Donato, Stephen Fleck, Advisors - Clorinda Donato, Stephen Fleck, Program Office - AS 309

The Bachelor of Arts in French, Interdisciplinary Option, provides students with a thorough basis in the study of French language, history, literature, politics, and culture within a global context. This major provides a unique opportunity for students to address the cultural, economic, social, and political dimensions of Francophonie. The Interdisciplinary Option reinforces California State University, Long Beach's established and recognized record as a leader in offering students a global pedagogical experience that can be transferred to the working world of the present and the future.

Students completing the B.A. in French, Interdisciplinary Option, will acquire an interdisciplinary understanding of history, culture, and society of France that will prepare them for a broad range of career options both at home and abroad. These include international law and business, teaching, government and Foreign Service. In addition, the solid background in French and Francophone history and literature provides a strong foundation for further study at the graduate level in a variety of M.A. and Ph.D. programs.
