Student Life & Development
(562) 985-4181
Student Life & Development (SLD) provides opportunities for students to develop their leadership skills, make social connections, offer a positive difference on campus and in the community, and interact with faculty, alumni, business and community leaders. One of the best ways to further your educational and extracurricular interests is by joining a student organization. There are more than 350 student organizations at CSULB and many of them participate in the “Week of Welcome” fair, which is held during... the second week of each semester and is designed to boost membership among new students. Visit the SLD office, located in the University Student Union (USU), Room 215, to learn more connecting to The Beach.

Types of Student Organizations
There are several categories of on-campus student organizations available, including:

Academic Student Associations & College Councils
Academic organizations and College Councils help students meet and network with other students of similar majors, alumni and professionals from the fields in which they are interested. Activities sponsored by these organizations include: professional guest speakers, career-related seminars and workshops, and student-faculty events.

Cultural
The cultural student organizations sponsor and coordinate some of the most visible and popular campus programs while fostering multiculturalism and diversity. They include, but are not limited to: the Black Student Union, American Indian Student Council, Cambodian Student Society, La Raza Student Association, Pacific Islanders Association, Pilipino American Coalition and the Vietnamese Student Association.

Fraternities & Sororities
Fraternities and sororities are socially based groups that enroll members based on a mutual selection process called “recruitment.” There are more than 30 fraternities and sororities and one co-ed fraternity on campus. The goal of each fraternity and sorority varies widely, but most value a commitment to community service, academic scholarship and friendship among members. There are also several professional fraternities and sororities based in specific academic departments.

Honor & Recognition Societies
The honor and recognition societies at CSULB include: the Eta Sigma Gamma, Golden Key International National Honor Society and National Society of Collegiate Scholars. Determination of membership is usually based on academic scholarship and accomplishments.

Political & Social Action
The political and social action organizations at CSULB focus on political and social issues at the local and national level. They include but are not limited to: Cease Animal Torture, Feminist Organization Reclaiming Consciousness and Equality, Gay Straight Alliance, Long Beach State Democrats, Long Beach College Republicans, Queers and Allies and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). These groups sponsor speakers and events specific to their interests.

Religious

Leadership Resource Center
(562) 985-1936
An extension of SLD, the Lois J. Swanson Leadership Resource Center (LRC) in the USU, Room 314, houses a leadership resource library and offers students leadership skills through personal development workshops held in conjunction with the Leadership Academy. The Leadership Academy is a curriculum of workshops and experiences designed to cultivate leadership excellence. The workshops help students to enhance their leadership competencies as well as develop their leadership potential.

Associated Students, Incorporated
Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) is the representative government for the student body of CSULB. They seek to facilitate the achievement of students’ educational objectives and life goals through programs, services and facilities, advocate student needs and interests, compel student representation in campus decision making, and provide students with resources that they identify as necessary for their intellectual social and physical development. For more information, visit the ASI Government Office in the USU, Room 311.
