Gilles Deleuze
(1925-1995)
French philosopher. Complex writings suggest interesting ideas, but not an easy read. Worked in unique partnership with Felix Guattari from late 1960s. Saw mind and body as one, and an exciting force in the world. Criticised Freud for his conservative family-based models. Concept of 'desire' suggested that desire works as a key to unlock worlds of infinite possibilities. Desire reaches chaotically in many directions, and brings transformations.

Selected Works:
Anti-Oedipus: Capitalism and Schizophrenia (with Guattari, Viking, 1983)
