Prepare a skit with your companion.

You are leaving for China to study Chinese. Your parents and your friend are coming to see you off. At the waiting room, you are talking about the flight schedule, about your luggage, your future plan to study.

Yesterday, there happened to be a football match. You were too busy to watch it, so you missed it. You ask your friend about the result.

Your parents are happy that you are going to China. At the same time, they are concerned with everything, because this is your first time going abroad. Tell them not to worry. A friend in Beijing will help you with everything. Promise to call them when you arrive in Beijing. So on and so forth. Try to cover the topics that are appropriate in this situation.
